

SDR Basics

1. Please read the guidance released on FormsWarehouse and in advisories related to Same-Day Registration (SDR). Many of your questions are likely answered in those documents.
2. SDR is an in-person process only and cannot be done with a mailed, electronic or third-party voter registration application.
3. All same-day registrants must cast a provisional ballot. Ballots cast by same-day registrants cannot be voted on the machine or counted until they have been adjudicated by the Electoral Board. There are no exceptions.
4. The five-day wait period does not apply to SDR.
 - The five-day wait period does not apply to mail ballots regardless of SDR.
 - The 5-day wait period still applies to voters registering before the voter registration deadline. Nothing has changed about the 5-day wait period before the close of books.
5. All forms of acceptable ID apply for same-day registrants. If a same-day registrant does not have any of those forms of ID, they may sign the ID Confirmation Statement. The ID for SDR does not have to have an address on it.
6. Same-day applications from early voting need to be entered into VERIS before you pull your pollbook so voters show up appropriately. It is advisable to enter these throughout early voting so records are updated promptly.
7. SDR happens in the precinct or early voting site in which the voter's current address makes them eligible to vote. There is no SDR in the Registrar's office on Election Day.
8. It is advisable to come up with a system for officers of election in the precinct to separate voter registration applications that relate to an SDR from those that do not, since they require a different level of urgency after Election Day.
9. The deadline to enter same-day applications received on Election Day is 5:00 p.m. on the Friday after Election Day.
 - Please bear in mind that for November 2022, the Friday following Election Day is a federal holiday. This deadline will not move to the subsequent Monday to accommodate for the holiday. If your office will be closed on Friday, you should have same-day applications processed by Thursday, November 10, 2022.
